you feel the good that's done by Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cleanses, regulates and invigorates Stomach, Liver and Bowels and so purifies the blood. And through the blood, it cleanses, repairs, and invigorates the whole system.

In recovering from "grippe," or in convalescence from pneumonia, fevers, or other exhausting diseases, nothing can equal it as an appetizing, restorative tonic to build up needed flesh and strength. It rouses every organ into natural action, promotes all the bodily functions, and restores health and vigor.

For every disease that comes from foul or Weak Stomach, a torpid Liver or impure Blood, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, and the most stubborn Skin, Scalp, or Scrofulous affections, the "Discovery" is a sovereign remedy. Don't be hypnotized, wheedled, or over persuaded into accepting a substitute only that some selfish medicine seller may make a greater profit on the inferior article. The "Discovery" has a great record of nearly forty years with thousands of cures behind it.

Dear Sir—Several years ago my blood became impoverished and I became run down in health. I had no appetite, could not sleep, and was practically unfitted for work. Suffered from innumerable boils and was in bad shape. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery relieved me of my wretched condition. The medicine built up my system and restored me to a normal condition of health. I can speak most highly also, of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as it has been used in my family for years in cases of female trouble.

A FACT PROVEN.

Should Convince Even the Most Skeptical of Its Truth.

If there is the slightest doubt in the minds of any that Dandruff germs do not exist, their belief is compelled by the fact that a rabbit innoculated with the germs became bald in six weeks' time.

It must be apparent to any person therefore that the only prevention of baldness is the destruction of the germ—which act is successfully accomplished in one hundred per cent. of cases by the application of Newbro's Herpicide.

Dandruff is caused by the same germ which causes baldness and can be prevented with the same remedy—Newbro's Herpicide.

INAUGURAL ADDRESS.

MY FELLOW CITIZENS: No people on earth have more cause to be thankful than ours, and this is said reverently, in no spirit of boastfulness in our own strength, but with gratitude to the Giver of Good who has blessed us with the conditions which have enabled us to achieve so large a measure of well-being and of happiness. To us as a people it has been granted to lay the foundations of our national life in a new continent. We are the heirs of the ages, and yet we have had to pay few of the penalties which in old countries are exacted by the dead hand of a bygone civilization. We have not been obliged to fight for our existence against any alien race; and yet our life has called for the vigor and effort without which the manlier and hardier virtues wither away. Under such conditions it would be our own fault if we failed; and the success which we have had in the past, the success which we confidently believe the future will bring, should cause in us no feeling of vain-glory, but rather a deep and abiding realization of all which life has offered us; a full acknowledgment of the responsibility which is ours; and a fixed determination to show that under a free government a mighty people can thrive best, alike as regards the things of the body and the things of the soul.

Much has been given to us, and much will rightfully be expected from us. We have duties to others and duties to ourselves; and we can shirk neither. We have become a great nation, forced by the fact of its greatness into relations with the other nations of the earth; and we must behave as beseems a people with such responsibilities. Toward all other nations, large and small, our attitude must be one of cordial and sincere friendship. We must show not only in our words but in our deeds that we are earnestly desirous of securing their good will by acting toward them in a spirit of just and generous recognition of all their rights. But justice and generosity in a nation, as in an individual, count most when shown not by the weak but by the strong. While ever careful to refrain from wronging others, we must be no less insistent that we are not wronged ourselves. We wish peace; but we wish the peace of justice, the peace of righteousness. We wish it because we think it is right and not because we are afraid. No weak nation that acts manfully and justly should ever have cause to fear us, and no strong power should ever be able to single us out as a subject for insolent aggression.

Our relations with the other powers of the world are important; but still more important are our relations among ourselves. Such growth in wealth, in population and in power as this nation has seen during the century and a quarter of its national life is inevitably accompanied by a like growth in the problems which are ever before every nation that rises to greatness. Power invariably means both responsibility and danger. Our forefathers faced certain perils which we have outgrown. We now face other perils the very existence of which it was impossible that they should foresee. Modern life is both complex and intense, and the tremendous changes wrought by the extraordinary industrial development of the last half century are felt in every fiber of our social and political being. Never before have men tried so vast and formidable an experiment as that of administering the affairs of a continent under the forms of a democratic republic. The conditions which have told for our marvelous material well-being, which have developed to a very high degree our energy, self-reliance, and individual initiative, have also brought the care and anxiety inseparable from the accumulation of great wealth in industrial centers. Upon the success of our experiment much depends; not only as regards our own welfare, but as regards the welfare of mankind. If we fail, the cause of free self-government throughout the world will rock to its foundations; and therefore our responsibility is heavy, to ourselves, to the world as it is today, and to the generations yet unborn. There is no good reason why we should fear the future, but there is every reason why we should face it seriously, neither hiding from ourselves the gravity of the problems before us nor fearing to approach these problems with the unbending, unflinching purpose to solve them aright.

Yet, after all, though the problems are new, though the tasks set before us differ from the tasks set before our fathers who founded and preserved this Republic, the spirit in which these tasks must be undertaken and these problems faced, if our duty is to be well done, remains essentially unchanged. We know that self-government is difficult. We know that no people needs such high traits of character as that people which seeks to govern its affairs aright through the freely expressed will of the freemen who compose it. But we have faith that we shall not prove false to the memories of the men of the mighty past. They did their work, they left us the splendid heritage we now enjoy. We in our turn have an assured confidence that we shall be able to leave this heritage unwasted and enlarged to our children and our children's children. To do so we must show, not merely in great crises, but in the everyday affairs of life, the qualities of practical intelligence, of hardihood and endurance, and above all the power of devotion to a lofty ideal, which made great the men who founded this Republic in the days of Washington, which made great the men who preserved this Republic in the days of Abraham Lincoln.

Like Finding Money.

Finding health is like finding money—so think those who are sick. When you have a cough, cold, sore throat or chest irritation, better act promply like W. C. Barber, of Sandy Level, Va. He says: "I had a terrible chest trouble, caused by smoke and coal dust on my lungs; but, after finding no relief in other remedies, I was cured by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds." Greatest sale of any cough or lung medicine on earth. At E. S. Leadbeater & Son's drug store; 50c and $1.00; guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

Inflammatory Rheumatism Cured.

William Shafler, a brakeman of Dennison, Ohio, was confined to his bed for several weeks with inflammatory rheumatism. "I used many remedies," he says. "Finally I sent to McCaw's drug store for a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, at which time I was unable to use hand or foot, and in one week's time was able to go to work as happy as a clam." For sale by Gibson & Timberman and W. F. Creighton & Co.

Pleasant and Harmless.

"IT SAVED MY LIFE"

PRAISE FOR A FAMOUS MEDICINE

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I can truly say that you have saved my life, and I cannot express my gratitude to you in words.

Mrs. T. C. Willadsen

"Before I wrote to you, telling you how I felt, I had doctored for over two years steady and spent lots of money on medicines besides, but it all failed to help me. My monthly periods had ceased and I suffered much pain, with fainting spells, headache, backache and bearing-down pains, and I was so weak I could hardly keep around. As a last resort I decided to write you and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am so thankful that I did, for after following your instructions, which you sent me free of all charge, my monthly periods started; I am regular and in perfect health. Had it not been for you I would be in my grave to-day.

"I sincerely trust that this letter may lead every suffering woman in the country to write you for help as I did."

When women are troubled with irregular or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhœa, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation or the ovaries, backache, flatulence, general debility, indigestion and nervous prostration, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles.

No other female medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. Refuse all substitutes.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Why We Recommend Orrine To Cure Drunkenness.

In taking the agency for Orrine, the liquor habit cure, we thoroughly satisfied ourselves that it was an article of genuine merit, and that the company, which is located in Washington, D. C., deals squarely and lives up strictly to the guarantee. "If the cure is not made the money will be refunded."

Since selling Orrine numerous cases have come to our knowledge that have been cured of the horrible liquor habit by this meritorious article, which strengthens the nervous system and destroys the craving for whiskey, beer or other alcoholic stimulants. Orrine is prepared in two forms. No. 1 should be given to cure the patient without his knowledge. It can be put into coffee or food, as it is tasteless, colorless and odorless.

We think that when the excessive drinker is approached properly he will be willing to be cured. If he consents, purchase Orrine No. 2, which is put up in pill form. Either form sells at $1 per package. Step into our store and receive full information regarding Orrine, the remedy that really cures the liquor habit. If you will write to the Orrine Company, Inc., Washington, D. C., they will send you free a book on "Drunkenness," in a plain paper wrapper.

We have great confidence that Orrine cures the drink habit, and highly recommend it to you. E. S. Leadbeater & Sons, Druggists, Alexandria, Va.

SIC SEMPER TYRANNIS
AND VIRGINIA ADVERTISER

SATURDAY EVENING, MAR. 4, 1905

THEODORE ROOSEVELT took the oath of office and delivered his inaugural address shortly after noon today at the east front of the Capitol at Washington before one of the largest assemblages ever gathered in that city on a similar occasion. There was a colossal pageant and the programme of exercises was carried out in the main. There was nothing in the inaugural ceremonies materially different from those witnessed when others called to fill the position of Chief Magistrate have taken the oath of office. The assemblage was miscellaneous in its nature, as there were representatives from all parts of the world. Speciments of the genus homo from the antipodes recently taken under the paternal care of the United States looked and wondered at the manners and customs of modern civilization, and doubtless contrasted them with the ceremonies incident to the induction into office of a Malay chief when a hecatomb of human beings are slaughtered. Mr. Roosevelt's inaugural address contained nothing especially striking, but it had one redeeming feature—it was brief. In fact, it was abbreviated to such an extent that it stands second in contraction to any ever delivered by an incoming President. General Grant's inaugural address in 1869 filled about half a column in the Gazette. Mr. Roosevelt's exceeds it by a few inches. There is, however, but little a President can say under conditions which surround Mr. Roosevelt. He has been President for three years and a half and during that time has said in speeches and messages about all he need have said, and his views upon political economy in general are well known. Mr. Roosevelt says he is the President of the entire country. He was elected by the largest majority ever before given a President and can well afford to be entirely independent of all baneful influences. It is hoped that he may see the right and be actuated by its principles, and that tranquility may prevail throughout the land during his term of office.

PICTURES which have recently appeared in periodicals representing George Washington engaged in prayer in the woods at Valley Forge and Thomas Jefferson arriving in Washington on horseback previous to his inauguration afford marked contrasts to the scenes enacted in Washington today, where pomp and splendor have overspread the city and at a time when serene conditions exist and nothing is in evidence to make us afraid. It is said by a gentleman who occupied a room in a Washington hotel adjoining that in which Abraham Lincoln was located the night following the latter's arrival in the capital city in 1861, that the newly-elected President was engaged in earnest prayer throughout the entire night. The burden of Mr. Lincoln's supplications was that he be clothed with the ability to fill the high office to which he was elected—only this and nothing more. Lincoln referred to the case of Solomon, who merely asked wisdom to judge the people and who ignored the carte blanche which had been tendered him. There was earnestness and humility in Lincoln's appeal to the throne of grace, and it is hoped Mr. Roosevelt will be found clothed in the same spirit.

FORTY MILLION DOLLARS filched annually from the American public by means of a hard and fast trade combination is the charge made in Chicago against the drug trust, against which it is said the federal government is preparing to proceed criminally. Startling evidence of the scope and strength of the combine has been disclosed in the last fortnight before a U. S. commissioner. The amount of business controlled by the combination is estimated at $400,000,000 annually. Thomas A. Wotten, secretary of the National Association of Retail Druggists, is the man who gave much of the damaging evidence on cross-questioning in a suit for $100,000 damages against the combine under the anti-trust law. It is hoped that the suit against this powerful drug trust may be won, but if it is robbing the public of forty millions annualy, the chances of doing so are slim indeed.

A NUMBER of merchants in the city of Williamsburg were fined a day or two ago on the charge of selling cider not properly labeled. It is said that this law is being violated throughout the State and that the reason more arrests have not been made is the negligence of the State officers.

THE pure food bill was displaced in the Senate yesterday and thus killed so far as this session of Congress is concerned. The bill had no chance of passage since its introduction, as there is too much money in adulterated foods.

From Washington.

Washington, D. C., March 4.

President Roosevelt left the White House precisely at 10 o'clock. As he entered the carriage drawn by the four bays he was greeted with a cheer. Senators Spooner and Lodge and Representative Dalzell climbed into the carriage with the President, which proceeded to the Capitol through wildly cheering banks of people. "Good luck to you, boys," cried the President as he left the porte cochere of the White House to the little knot of newspapermen and photographers standing with bared heads. "Good luck to you, Mr. President," replied the small gathering. Mrs. Roosevelt, Miss Alice, Miss Hagner, the White House social secretary, and several ladies of the Cabinet circle stood out upon the eastern terrace to see the President and his official family leave the grounds.

Senator Fairbanks' carriage immediately followed the President's equipage. With Senator Fairbanks were Senator Bacon and Representatives Crumnacker and John Sharp Williams. The Cabinet members followed immediately after the the Vice President-elect, and then came the carriages containing Gen. Wilson the chairman of the inaugural committee, the President's military and naval aides and Secretary Loeb. As soon as the President's carriage emerged from the grounds the Rough Rider escort, which had been waiting at the west gate, closed in behind and around the vehicle and the march to the Capitol began in earnest. Troop A, of New York, which had been stationed in front of the east gate and the Treasury building, followed the Rough Riders, and the Grand Army of the Republic closed up the gap behind the gaily uniformed cavalrymen.

Squadron A of the New York National Guard, which shared honors as the President's guard with the Rough Riders, had a discouraging time getting into Washington last night, and for a time many of the members feared that their train was not going to arrive until after the inauguration. As it was they landed within sight of the monument at ten o'clock, just nine hours late.

Senator Depew, of New York, is said to have paid the top price for a peep at the inaugural parade. According to the report he handed over $800 for a window in the Corcoran building.

Speaker Cannon was today presented with a massive solid-silver loving cup in token of the regard of which he is held by his fellow-members. Democrats and republicans alike joined in subscribing for the cup.

THE INAUGURATION.

Washington, D. C., February, 4.—Theodore Roosevelt was today transformed from President by chance into President by choice. Under the shadow of the Capitol the twenty-sixth President of the United States was inaugurated. Once before he had taken the oath; then, at the death-bed of President McKinley, surrounded by a small company of friends; today in the presence of thousand of people.

Today there were represented in the throngs that had journeyed hither to greet President Roosevelt men from the North, South, East and West, and from distant lands of the seas.

This morning—80 picked men under ex-Gov. Brodie with squadron A of the New York National Guard, formed his escort to the Capitol. On his arrival there he was conducted to the President's room, where he began at once the signing of belated bills. At noon he entered the Senate to witness the installation of Senator Fairbanks as Vice-President. This ceremony concluded, he proceeded to the stand on the east front of the Capitol to receive the oath from Chief Justice Fuller and to deliver his inaugural address. [The full text of the President's address is published in another column.] Immediately upon its conclusion the President was escorted back to the White House, where, after lunching with the officials of the inaugural committee, he took his position on the stand to review the formal inaugural parade.

The day will be concluded with a general illumination of the city and fireworks on the monument grounds, followed by the great inaugural ball in the Pension building, at which President and Mrs. Roosevelt will be the guests of honor.

Many thousands of people assembled around the east front of the Capitol where the inauguration ceremonies were held. Long before the ceremonies in the Senate, where Vice-President Fairbanks was taking his oath of office, were concluded, most of the reserved seats had been filled by ticket-holders. At the conclusion of that ceremony the members of the Supreme Court emerged from the Capitol building and took their seats on the platform. Next came the President, escorted by Senators Spooner, Lodge and Bacon and Representatives Dalzell, Crumpacker and Williams, of Mississippi, composing the congressional committee of arrangements. They were followed by the members of the diplomatic corps in full regalia. Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Fairbanks were next escorted to seats just outside the tribune. The President's children were with Mrs. Roosevelt and Mr. Fairbanks' two sons and his daughter, Mrs. Adelaide Timmons, were with Mrs. Fairbanks. Mrs. Roosevelt was gowned in a plain tailored suit of electric blue; the round skirt was trimmed in bands of lighter shade panne velvet, and the short, modish jacket had a vest of the panne braided in silver. Mrs. Fairbanks wore a dress of brown velvet, trimmed with chiffon and white ermine. Her hat and gloves were also white. Vice-President Fairbanks, accompanied by the Secretary of the Senate and followed by the Senators and ex-Senators, was next in order. Then came Speaker Cannon and the House of Representatives. The members of the Cabinet were ushered to their chairs, and at their heels came Lieutenant-General Chaffee. Admiral Dewey was unable to take part on account of illness.

The Governors of States and Territories and the other invited guests followed in perscribed order. After all had been seated Chief Justice Fuller stepped to the front of the tribune, immediately followed by the President, the two taking positions facing each other. In feeble tones the venerable jurist then pronounced the oath. President Roosevelt repeated the formal declaration prescribed in article II of the Constitution: "I do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

A second later he bowed and pressed his lips upon the open pages of a copy of the Bible held toward him by Clerk McKenney, of the Supreme Court. A signal had been flashed from the dome of the Capitol to the navy yard, whence came the boom of a ten-inch gun, first of twenty-one, fired in honor of the newly inaugurated Chief Executive and a roar of cheers resounded far and wide across the plaza. On the outskirts of the crowd bands were playing; cannon in the Virginia forts across the river and batteries in the city were joining the big guns at the navy yard in the salute to the President. For many minutes the jangle of sounds continued before the President could find a chance to begin his inaugural address.

The conclusion of the address was the signal for another ovation, during which Mr. Roosevelt shook hands with most of the notables who pressed about the tribune. Then he was escorted back to the rotunda of the Capitol and thence to the executive chamber, where he held a brief reception before leaving for the White House.

Pennsylvania avenue was decorated througout and was crowded with people to see the parade and the President ride to and from the Capitol. The military led, then came the civic organizations. With standards waving and regimental colors flaunting, infantry, cavalry, and artillery tramped, pranced, and rumbled through the avenue.

Many observers say that the processions beat all its predecessors.

There was said to be nearly thirty thousand men in line. For three hours the mobilization progressed along First street, Pennsylvania avenue, and confluent streets about the Capitol. Many of the militia companies and civic bodies arrived on morning trains.

The parade was organized as follows:

MILITARY GRAND DIVISION.

Maj. Gen. James F. Wade, Chief Marshal.

First division, Brig. Gen. F. D. Grant, commanding; first brigade, Brig. Gen. A. L. Mills, West Point Cadets and Annapolis Midshipmen; second brigade, Brig. Gen. T. H. Barry, U. S. forces; third brigade, Brig. Gen. G. H. Harries, Nationol Guard District of Columbia:

Second division, Gov. S. W. Pennypacker, of Pennsylvania, commanding National Guard detachments; first brigade, Gov. Preston Lee, of Delaware; second brigade, Gov. E. C. Stokes, of New Jersey; third brigade, Gov. Edwin Warfield, of Maryland.

Third division, Gov. F. V. Higgins, of New York, commanding National Guard detachments; first brigade, Brig. Gen. G. M. Smith, N. G. N. Y.; second brigade, Gov. M. T. Herrick, of Ohio; third brigade, Brig. Gen. I. H. Bliss, (college cadets.)

Ahead of the parade proper President Roosevelt and his escort, this time composed solely of the Rough Riders and Squadron A, proceeded up the avenue to the White House, where the President, after his lunch, took position in the grand reviewing stand, surrounded by members of his Cabinet, the diplomats, and other notables. Then, to the blare of bugles, the big procession led by a platoon of policeman started. From streets choked full of marchers there streamed for hours a solid column around Capitol Hill and up the avenue. Wire ropes had already been stretched the length of Pennsylvania avenue on either side flush with the curb. Regular and special policemen stationed along the route kept the spectators behind the wire. Street cars were barred from the avenue for eight hours today the order going into effect at 10 o'clock this morning.

The first brigade was headed by Maj. Gen. Wade, in command of the entire military section. After him came the Fifth band, Artillery Corps, stationed at Fort Hamilton, New York. This was first of forty bands in the parade. Next followed the corps of cadets from the United States Military Academy. Naturally they divided honors with the naval cadets, who marched immediately behind. Still more cadets followed those of the revenue marine service forming several platoons. Then came the regulars, real enlisted men, five hundred of the Second Battalion of Engineers.

Much interest attached to the battalion of Philippine Scouts, which was held over in this country after the St. Louis Exposition to participate in the inauguration, and also to the battalion of the provincial regiment of Porto Rico. The military division was composed of regulars, and State troops who marched as published in the Gazette of Wednesday last. The arrangement for State troops marching in alphabetical order was change and Delaware lead.

Where Governors and their staffs were present they headed their State contingents. The Governors for the most part rode in black coats and silk hats, but their staff members had fairly ransacked the regalia stores for the occasion.

The Virginia troops in line were: Mecklenburg Guard, Culpeper Minute Men, Richmond Blues, Petersburg Grays, Companies A, B, C, and E, Seventieth Regiment; Seventy-first Regiment; Company I, Seventieth Regiment. The Virginia troops were commanded by Col. Higgins.

Following the State militia came a number of military cadet organizations from schools, colleges and universities.

Although soldiery was the chief feature, the civilian organizations forming the second section of the parade showed up strong in numbers. Marching in the open order effected by political clubs, they spread all over the avenue. There were several thousand in line.

There were several "novel and attractive features." In this class was the band or three hundred and fifty Indians, headed by a half dozen chiefs from the West, riding their war ponies and ferocious looking in feathers and paint.

Ranchmen, cowboys, miners, and college students, flambeau clubs, Spanish war veterans and posts of the G. A. R. were in the civic division.

The officers of the civic division were: B. H. Warner, of Washington, chief marshal; first division, Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard, commanding; second division, Brig. Gen. Joseph Wheeler; third division, W. J. Lyons, (colored organizations).

A unique feature was the presence of the Tennessee legislature. It came to Washington in a body to participate in the parade and other inaugural functions.

Washington was a gala city today in the fullest sense of the term. Everywhere decorations met the eye. Grand stands were covered with bunting; buildings wore streamers of red, white and blue; American flags graced every available staff. The center of attraction was at the White House, where the parade review took place. In Lafayette square the largest stand in the city was erected. Across the avenue was the Presidential stand, the most ornamental in town. Doric columns supported the roof, the classic scheme being accentuated in the middle section, from which President Roosevelt, the inaugural committee, and a chosen few, consisting of cabinet members, their families and guests, participated in the review. Besides a wealth of bunting and flags, reproductions of State shields and similar devices, the committee brought from Louisiana several carloads of giant palms which lent a tropical appearance to the lane through which the parade passed. Staff statuary on exhibition at the St. Louis fair last summer was set up on pedestals in front of each stand to the number of 143 separate pieces, forming the Court of History. Besides these were four lions that had guarded the entrance to the Liberal Arts building; fifty urns from the colonnade of the Varied Industries building, as well as other attractive features of similar character.

The inauguration of President Roosevelt will go down in history as a success from every point of view. Following cloudy weather and a slight fall of rain before 9 o'clock this morning the sun broke through the clouds, and up to 10:45 the day was nearly perfect from a weather point of view. The crowd was larger than for the past three inaugurations. The perfect weather before noon put everybody in holiday spirits and they thoroughly enjoyed the sights. The crowd which arrived last night is unprecedented in the history of the city. It was an orderly one, too, and no serious violations of the police regulations have been reported. About 10:45 the clouds began to gather and the indications pointed to a cold, dismal day, but the skies soon cleared again, though the temperature fell perceptibly.

The grand inaugural ball will be held tonight. This evening's reception at the Pension building promises to exceed in grandeur its predecessors in the great edifice, famous as the largest brick structure in the world, and which has been most magnificently decorated for the occasion. Keenest rivalry exists in the matter of dress. Costly gowns have been brought from Paris and Vienna for this occasion. Mrs. Roosevelt's ball gown is made of a special weave of a new shade of light blue silk with figures of doves in gold tinsel. The shade has been named "Alice Blue," in honor of the President's daughter, who selected the material at the St. Louis fair. The doves, which are represented as flying diagonally across the blue of the dress, are of varying sizes, from two inches between the tips of the wings down to the size of a bee. Mrs. Fairbanks will wear a gown of white satin duchesse, embroidered with roses of gold in the natural size of the flower. The lace trimming is of Brussels point d'applique, with a design of bow-knots and marguerites interwoven. Every man who has the right to sport a uniform will do so.

The inauguration cost about $65,000, which it is believed has been fully repaid in the sale of grandstand seats and ball tickets. The guaranty fund subscribed by Washington merchants and business men will thus be returned.

CONGRESSIONAL.

The Senate found itself yesterday far less pressed than usual on the last day of a session of Congress. All the appropriation bills having been passed, the session was given up largely to general legislation, and, when necessary, to conference reports on appropriation bills.

During the day the pure food bill was definitely displaced, and a sharp colloquy over the incident occurred between Messrs. McCumber and Lodge.

At the night session the final conference reports on the general deficiency bill and the river and harbor bills were adopted, disposing of all appropriation bills.

Mr. Hale presented the first conference report on the general deficiency bill. In response to an inquiry from Mr. Gorman he said the conferees had failed to reach an agreement on the House provision appropriating $190,000 to pay mileage to Senators and members for the second session of the present Congress. He said the Senate's position, to the effect that there was really no more interim between the extra session and the first regular session than there is between one day and the one following it, and therefore no recess, had been fully explained to the House conferees, but that they had not yielded.

Mr. Gorman expressed the hope that the Senate would not yield its position for a moment. He added the opinion that if the provision should become a law it would create a national scandal.

Mr. Platt, of Connecticut, expressed confidence that the House would instruct its conferees to yield the point in a second conference. He therefore suggestep that the Senate should decide to insist upon its amendmeent and ask for another conference. The report, as far as it went, was agreed to, and the Senate decided to ask for another conference. When it reached the House that body receded.

At 11:45 p. m. the Senate took a recess until 10 o'clock this morning.

The last day's session of the House found that body almost through with its work of disposing of conference reports on the great supply measures of the government and a few measures of more or less public importance.

A feature of the proceedings was the general desire of the members to abstain from obstructive tactics and permit the disposition of business. The only subject which gave rise to any considerable debate was the conference report on the river and harbor bill, in the course of which Mr. Sibley, of Pennsylvania, attacked Chairman Burton for being prejudiced against a free conference on the question of State aid in the improvement of the Delaware River, below Philadelphia. By an overwhelming vote the House refused to agree to a motion by Mr. Sibley to concur in the Senate amendments, and then gave Mr. Burton a splendid indorsement. Final conference reports on the two remaining appropriation bills—the river and harbor and the general deficiency measures—were agreed to at the evening session. The House finally receded from its disagreement on the Congressional mileage provision of the general deficiency bill, thus passing the bill finally. A bill was passed fixing the compensation of criers and bailiffs in United States courts at $3 per day, instead of $2. At 11:55 p. m., the House took a recess until 10 o'clock this morning.

The statehood bill died at 9:30 o'clock last night. At that time the conferees on the bill parted, not to meet again during the Fifty-eighth Congress. The last conference, like the many others, resulted in no agreement between the Senate and House on the questions involved in the bills in the two Houses.

The bride was the recipient of several hundred presents, including a Sevres tea service from the French government.

Last Night's Railroad Accident.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 4.—Seven bodies of victims of the wreck are at the morgue this morning, only two of which are visible to visitors, many of whom were drawn to the morgue through curiosity merely. Such as were thought to be friends of the deceased and came for legitimate purposes of identification were shown the charred remains. The last of the wreckage cleared up about 8:30 this morning. At that hour no additional bodies had been found.

The same telegram gives another dispatch from Kurepatkin, saying:

"The Japanese are marching on Mukden and my position is extremely dangerous."

It is said that the officials in St. Petersburg admit that Kuropatkin has sustained a crushing defeat, but the extent of the disaster is not accurately known. It is hoped in St. Petersburg that the left wing will escape and rejoin Kuropatkin further north.

Fifty-Eighth Congress.

SENATE.

The Senate met promptly at ten o'clock, having recessed from last night. The appearance of the chamber had been entirely changed through the removal of the usual senatorial chairs and the substitution therefor of cane seated chairs. The first thing was the passing of a joint resolution offered by Senator Hale, appropriating $2,000 for extra expenses in connection with the inauguration.

Senator Allison, then made a brief statement regarding appropriations made by this Congress and the condition of the treasury.

The reception of messages from the House announcing its approval of bills and the formal announcement from time to time by the President pro tem. of the enrollment of various measures was the only business transacted on the floor until at 10:45 on motion of Senator Allison the Senate took a recess for a half hour.

There was much, however, to interest and amuse the occupants of the galleries. Old and new Senators met and exchanged greetings.

When the Senate reassembled Senator Bacon took the chair and Senator Gorman offered a resolution thanking President pro tem. Frye for the "dignified, impartial and courteous manner" in which he has presided over the proceedings of the Senate. In presenting the resolution Mr. Gorman said that while it was the customary resolution, he was sure that it represented the unanimous sentiment of the Senate.

Mrs. Roosevelt, Miss Alice, Theodore jr, and all the other members of the presidential family occupied the reserved gallery about twenty minutes after eleven o'clock and were shortly followed by Mrs. Fairbanks, the mother of the Vice President-elect, and Mrs. Fairbanks, jr. his wife, together with their family and friends.

At 11:29 a message from the House announced the appointment of a committee consisting of Messrs. Payne, Hepburn, and De Armond, to wait upon the President and tell him that the Congress was ready to adjourn unless he had further communication to make.

At 11:40 the committee to wait upon the President returned and announced that he had no further communication to make to Congress.

Vice President-elect Fairbanks, escorted by Senator Bacon and Representatives Cockran, Williams and Crumpacker, entered the chamber at 12:07. When it was 12:10 the President entered. He was escorted by the committee of arrangements appointed by the House and Senate and was followed by the members of his cabinet.

As he came through the door he turned to the executive gallery where his wife was sitting, and greeted her with a bright smile and a wave of his hands before being formally announced.

At 12:13 Senator Fairbanks was sworn in by President pro tem. Frye. In handing the gravel to the Vice President, Mr. Frye expressed his appreciation of the uniform courtsey which had been extended him during the time he has presided over the Senate. Chaplain Hale then prayed while the assembly rose to its feet.

Mr. Fairbanks addressed the Senate as follows:

Vice President Fairbanks upon being inaugurated spoke as follows: "Senators: I enter upon the discharge of the duties of the position to which I have been called by my countrymen with gratefully appreciation of the high honor and with the deep sense of its responsibilities. I have enjoyed the privilege of serving with you here for eight years. During that period you have been engaged in consideration of many domestic questions of vast importance and with foreign problem of unusual and far-reaching significance. We submit what we have done to the impartial judgment of history. I can never forget the pleasant relations which have been formed during my service upon the floor of the Senate. I shall cherish them alway as among the most delightful memories of my life. They warrant the belief that I shall have in the discharge of the functions which devolve upon me under the constitution the generous assistance and kindly forbearance of both sides the chamber. We witness the majestic spectal of a peaceful and orderly beginning of an administration of national affairs under the laws of a free and self governing people. We pray that Divine favor may attend it and that peace and progress justice and honor may abide with our country and our countrymen."

At its conclusion, he swore in 26 new Senators.

Then the Senate went to the east front of the Capitol to witness the inauguration of the President.

Mr. Fairbanks and half a dozen Senators returned to the Senate Chamber before the President had completed his inaugural address, and without attempting to do any business, adjourned the Senate at 1:20 p. m. until Monday.

HOUSE.

The galleries were deserted when Speaker Cannon called to order the thirty members who were present at 10 o'clock for the opening of the last session of the House of Representatives of the 28th Congress.

The House occupied itself with winding up a few bits of unimportant legislation, recessing for a few minutes occasionally to kill time. Bursts of song came from the cloak rooms, where members were indulging themselves in jests, laughter, and melody. Mr. Hemenway made a statement of appropriations and of the financial condition of the country amid considerable confusion, and at 11:10 Messrs. Payne, Hepburn and De Armond having been appointed to notify the President that the House is ready to adjourn, the House resolved itself into a "joint caucus of democrats and republicans," Representative Hepburn, of Iowa, the staunchest republican of them all, calling the democratic caucus to order and Representative Hay of Virginia presiding over the republicans.

Under their joint chairmanship the proceedings progressed, Mr. Boutelle, of Illinois, eulogizing Speaker Cannon, and presenting to him, on behalf of his colleagues, a magnificent loving cup.

The fact that the cup had not yet arrived from New York, where it was ordered, did not phase the orator of the occasion.

"We now present to you a loving cup," he said, "which you will find in your familiar room."

There was a burst of tremendous applause, everybody rising, some waving handkerchiefs, Speaker Cannon, who had taken a chair on the floor of the House, being the only one to remain seated.

Mr. Williams, the democratic floor leader, who arose to add his tribute, received a flattering reception. He testified to his affections for Speaker Cannon and joined "in the republican nomination just now made to take a yet higher office than the one he now occupies, if, indeed, one exists, reserving to myself the right to vote against him."

As the speaker stepped forward to respond, all arose and he was applauded to the echo as he left the floor and took his seat on the platform.

Mr. Champ Clark of Missouri, was then recognized to make another speech, of presentation, John Sharp Williams, the democratic floor leader, receiving a loving cup, from his democratic colleagues.

Clark's speech was a testimonial to Mr. Williams' splendid personal traits and his magnifficent leadership.

Mr. Williams response was very brief.

Mr. Richardson of Tennessee, the democratic floor leader of the last Congress, who retires from public life, today, then took the chair, while Mr. Williams read a resolution, acknowledging the fairness with which the speaker ruled the House and expressing to him its thanks.

It was adopted by a rising vote. Speaker Cannon then resumed the gavel again expressing his appreciation and at 11:50 he adjourned the House sine die.

The members then formed into procession to take part in the inaugural ceremonies on the Senate side.

Affairs in Russia.

St. Petersburg, March 4.—The disturbances expected today, the anniversary of the liberation of the serfs, have not yet occurred. At this hour everything is tranquil and normal conditions prevail. There are no signs that the workmen intend creating any trouble.

The strike movement is now spreading again. Stringent precautions have been taken to prevent disorders, and the general opinion is that there will be no violent demands. It is generally believed likely that the strike, so far as being a general movement, will collapse. Not that there will be a complete resumption of work throughout the empire. There are bound to be, as has already been said, isolated strikes here and there continually, and there is even a possibility that after the present trouble has quieted down it will again be renewed. This alternation of general strikes and general resumptions of work will probably be the programme for some time to come.

There were nine separate meetings of workmen yesterday evening, but at only one were delegates elected to meet with the government commission, and discuss concessions. At the other meetings the opinion was divided but the majority favored a refusal to do anything until the government has acquiesced or had shown a more conciliatory spirit.

St. Petersburg, Marh 4.—A dispatch from Lodz reports that a bomb exploded today in the house of M. Poznanskiamy, a cotton manufacturer. One of the inmates of the house, a porter, was wounded in the hands by the explosion. The porter was blown limb from limb. Two bombs and incriminating correspondence were found in the porter's apartments.

The employees of Poznanski's factory went out on strike yesterday.

Advices from the provinces say the strike movement is spreading and has got into effect in a number of places. There is no sign of concerted strike action, but the strikes seem to be each independent of the others.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

The Inauguration Today.

Apparently more interest was manifested by Alexandrians in the inaugural ceremonies in Washington today than on any similar occasion. Numbers of places of business were closed and a holiday spirit seemed to pervade the community. People were leaving the city on electric and steam trains during the early morning hours and the exodus continued almost to noon. Many could not leave their avocations until the afternoon, when they formed the rear guard of the vast concourse that had preceeded them. The steam trains arriving from the south were run in sections, while the managers of the electric railway were exercising their skill in meeting the demands for transportation. Their trains were passing in and out of the city at short intervals, and the company handled the vast crowds as well as could have been expected on such an occasion.

The scenes about the stations were animating. Hundreds of persons gathered at these points to take the trains for Washington. Large numbers boarded incoming trains at Payne, Fayette, Henry, Washington and Royal streets for the purpose of securing seats, while large crowds gathered at Prince and Fairfax streets, where stops were made. By the time the trains reached Prince and Royal streets they were densely packed, while several hundred persons were at that point awaiting transportation. The trains passed out of the city overflowing with passengers.

The scenes at the Fayette street depot were equally interesting. The long platform was packed with humanity awaiting the appearance of the local steam trains. They were running in sections, some containing ten cars, with a locomotive at each end. The running of the locals relieved the congestion greatly, and the action of the officials of the Washington Southern road in providing this means of transportation for Alexandrians was appreciated.

After 12 o'clock there was a marked lull and comparatively few people were on the streets, a large percentage of Alexandrians being in Washington.

The weather last night became foreboding, and there were indications of approaching rain. This morning there were light showers, but their duration was brief, and later old Sol smiled upon the earth, the mists vanished and an early spring temperature followed. These conditions, however, did not continue long, as a heavy northwest wind set in which rolled up ominous-looking clouds, but there was no rain, and fair and cool weather followed.

The Market.

There was another falling off in the attendance of sellers and buyers at market this morning. Eggs had declined to 30 cents a dozen, but all other articles were at former prices.

Some of the regular attendants at market were exasperated at an early hour this morning to find themselves locked out. The doors, it is said, are generally opened between 4 and 5 o'clock on Saturday mornings. At 6:15 the butchers, hucksters, bakers and others resolved to use violent measures in order to reach their benches and stalls, and an axe was brought to bear upon one of the Cameron street doors. In a few minutes' time an entrance was effected and the sellers proceeded to display their goods.

Benefit Performance.

The drama "Ten Nights in a Barroom" will be repeated next Tuesday night for the benefit of one of Alexandria's oldest citizens—Mr. Henry Brengle. There are few adults, male or female, in this city who do not know him, as he has catered to the fathers and grandfathers of the present generation. He is now in the advanced evening of life, but is as public-spirited as ever and still proud of old Alexandria and the many friends and acquanitances he has made during a residence of more than three score years in this city.

Dance.

The Alexandria German Club gave a very pretty dance at McBurney's Hall last night. The officers of the U. S. S. Prairie, now lying off this city had been invited to attend and were expected to be present, but the ice in the river prevented them from doing so. The dance however, was largely attended, many out-of-town people being present. The german was lead in his usually graceful manner by Judge L. C. Barley and the figures were very pretty.

The Late Accident.

The echoes of Wednesday night's accident on the electric railway are still being heard and many details impossible to gather at the time are being given by numbers who were on the ill-fated trains. All realize that, considering the seriousness of the accident, it was miraculous that more dire results did not follow. Attention has often been directed to the dangerous curve at Spring Park, and many Alexandrians realizing that in passing this point they ran a gauntlet, habitually breathed easier when they were out of the tunnel. Recently attention has been directed to another point on the electric railway where an accident is libable to occur and where, it is said, several trains have had narrow escapes. The place referred to in the intersection of King and Columbus streets. As is well known, north bound trains use King street throughout its entire length, while incoming trains enter Payne street, proceeding to Cameron, which thoroughfare is followed to Columbus, at which point they run south into King. It is alleged by some that on certain occasions outgoing trains have had narrow escapes from those rounding the curve into King street. It is impossible for motormen at this place to see approaching trains until within a few yards of each other. Should an incomming train collide with a crowded train at this point many would be seriously injured if not killed outright. The traveling community is entitled to all safeguards, and the railway company should use all precautions to avert another accident like that of Wednesday night.

The River.

Although the river is still full of ice, it is disentegrating every hour, and with a day or two of mild weather the embargo will have ceased to exist. The entire channel from the docks on this side of the river to the Maryland flats is a mass of fragments of ice, which are now moved up and down by the tide. The wind of today cleared the channel of much the ice, driving it to the opposite shore.

The transport Arkadia with Porto Rican soldiers for Washington arrived off Fort Foote early last night. The tugboat W. H. Yerkes went to the steamer and towed her to Washington.

The steamer Newport News of the Norfolk line passed up about 4 o'clock this morning with visitors from Norfolk, Old Point and other places in that vicinity.

The steamer Estelle Randall proceeded to Fort Washington this morning and conveyed the command at that post to Washington.

The Norwegian bark Vardvik, from Passa Sandu, Uruguay, arrived up this morning in tow of the tugboat Imperial of Baltimore. The bark anchored off Glymont last night on account of the heavy ice in the river. The Vardvik is load with bone for the Bryant Fertilizer and Chemical Company. She left Passu Sandu December 4, 1904. Dr. Arthur Snowden, marine hospital surgeon, boarded the bark upon her arrival and granted her a clear bill of health.

Police Court Items.

There was no session of the Police Court this morning and those in durance vile who cannot bring forth the necessary wherewithal in the shape of collateral will be held until Monday morning.

George Williams, the one-legged individual who drank himself drunk Thursday night and used his wooden leg on Officer Henderson when he arrested him, did not leave the city as he was ordered to do, but again indulged in exhilirating potions, rendering it necessary for Officer Allen to arrest him.

On a telegram received here today from Richmond, a colored girl named Mary Harris, who had run away from her parents in that city was arrested by Officers Mayhugh and Roberts.

The inauguration ceremonies today augumented the number of lodgers in the station house last night. Thirty-eight persons were accommodated.

REAR-END COLLISION.

In a rear-end collision last night between two special passenger trains from Cleveland, on the Cleveland and Pittsburg Railway en route to Washington, six men and one woman were killed and twenty others injured.

The accident happened at Clifton Station, eight miles west of Pittsburg, and was caused by the first special stopping for a hot box, and the second followed so closely that the flagman had not time to get back far enough to prevent a collision.

The first train carried a battalion of the Ohio Engineers. It was made up of six coaches and a baggage car. The second train, with the same number of cars, carried the Tippecanoe Club, of Cleveland, with a band and twenty-five or thirty women.

When the crash came the passengers in the rear car of the first train were the principal sufferers and all of the fatalities were in that car.

The wreckage took fire from the engine and the entire first train and three cars of the second were burned.

The engineer of the second train says the block signal showed a green light, and his train went ahead at the rate of about forty-five or fifty miles an hour. When the impact came the engine of the second train plowed through the rear Pullman in which the officers were and halt way into the tourist car just ahead of it.

Terrible Explosion.

Four men were killed and ten were more or less injured in a dynamite explosion about eight miles from Paintsville, W. Va., about 6 o'clock yesterday evening. The wounded are Italian and negro laborers. Twenty boxes of dynamite, over 400 pounds, let go just as the gang of men was quitting work to get ready for supper. The body of one of the victims was blown across the Big Sandy river, while those of Mullins and Kirk were literally blown to pieces. The men were working on the Big Sandy division of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad. The explosion was heard in Huntington and Ashland, a distance of sixty miles. The grade of the road was ruined for a hundred yards of more, and the hole caused by the explosion is large enough to contain a block of three-story buildings. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

Are You Engaged?

Engaged people should remember, that, after marriage, many quarrels can be avoided by keeping their digestion in good condition with Electric Bitters. S A. Brown, of Bennettsville, S. C., says: "For years my wife suffered intensely from dyspepsia, complicated with a torpid liver, until she lost her strength and vigor and became a mere wreck of her former self. Then she tried Electric Bitters, which helped her at once, and finally made her entirely well. She is now strong and healthy." E. S. Leadbeater & Sons, druggists, sells and guarantees them at 50c a bottle.

Proper Treatment of Pneumonia.

Pneumonia is too dangerous a disease for anyone to attempt to doctor himself, although he may have the proper remedies at hand. A physician should always be called. It should be borne in mind, however, that pneumonia always results from a cold or from an attack of the grip, and by the proper treatment of these diseases a threatened attack of pneumonia may be warded off. There is no question whatever about this, as during the thirty years and more that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been used, we have yet to learn of a single case of a cold or attack of the grip having resulted in pneumonia when this remedy was used. It is also used by physicians in the treatment of pneumonia with the best results. Dr. W. J. Smith, of Sanders, Ala., who is also a druggist, says of it: "I have been selling Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and prescribing it in my practice for the past six years. I use it in cases of pneumonia and have always gotten the best results." Sold by Gibson & Timberman and W. F. Creighton & Co.

A Dinner Invitation.

After a hearty meal a dose of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will prevent an attack of Indigestion. Kodol is a thorough digestant and a guaranteed cure for Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gas on the Stomach, Sour Risings, Bad Breath and all stomach troubles. N. Watkins, Lesbus, Ky., says: "I can testify to the efficacy of Kodol in the cure of Stomach Trouble. I was afflicted with Stomach Trouble for fifteen years and have taken six bottles of your Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, which has entirely cured me. The six bottles were worth $1,000 to me." Sold by all druggists.

Nothing will cure Indigestion that dosen't digest the food and give the stomach a rest, It isn't necessary to starve yourself in order to rest your stomach—take Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It will digest any quantity of all the wholesome food you want to eat while your stomach takes a rest—recuperates and grows strong. This wonderful preparation is justly entitled to all of its many remarkable cures. Sold by all druggists.

There is one rational way to treat nasal catarrh: the medicine is applied direct to the affected membrane. The remedy is Ely's Cream Balm. It restores the inflammed tissue to a healthy state without drying all the life out of them and it gives back the lost senses of taste and smell. The sufferer who is tried of vain experiments should use Cream Balm. Druggists sell it for 50 cts. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren street, New York, will mail it.
